SOWING GRAIN FOR HAY.
with Supply Both Grain and Hes in One—Provide for the Compost. &c. &c.

Fred M. Austin, Jr., of Lawrenceville, Georgia, has beef cattle, and is interested in raising the highest grade hay. He has a large crop of oats that he expects to be ready for cutting before long. This will be a profitable venture, as the hay is expected to bring a high price. The farmer who is not already growing hay should consider it a profitable enterprise. The hay is of the best quality, and will command a premium price in the market. It is important to sow the grain early in the season, to ensure a good stand and a bountiful harvest. The seed should be of good quality and free from weed seeds. The field should be plowed and harrowed, and the seed broadcasted evenly over the surface. The hay is worth as much as the grain and can be used for feed during the winter months.

FAMILY TRAITS

Thiefinding Incident in the Life of the President's Mother. Who was a real friend, a good neighbor, and a trusted counselor. He was a man of high principle and morality, and his advice was always sought and heeded.

The Major had lost a little in the seven days' lighting of the Great Fire of the City of New York, but he was a proud man. He never complained, and he never complained that his government had not given him adequate protection.

The Mayor of the city of Philadelphia was a patriotic man, and he never failed in his duty to the city. He was a man of high moral character and a true friend, and he was always sought and heeded.

The President's Mother, who was a great woman, and leaves little to be desired. She was a true friend, a good neighbor, and a trusted counselor. She was a woman of high principle and morality, and her advice was always sought and heeded.
