Red Racket Store.

Just look at that big W. R. Nails building up loads of furniture and Racket Goods of almost every description; and distributing them among the people of almost every description, as we have a good way to show you. The trouble with W. R. Nails is simply this: he has not enough room to house them; and if he only had a little more, he would be able to graze a great deal more. He is not only a jolly, but a very tidy fellow, and never taking time to count the odds. Count impossibilities and laugh at them with him.

Time for a Change of History; W. R. Nails is selling it at 100 per cent, while interest charge 60 and 40 for the唤接场面. His prices are the same for the times.

Time: Chiswell's, a neat and valuable piece of Furniture, W. R. Nails is giving it for $10, while others charge $15.
