THE LANTERN.

Vol. XII. No. 3.

CHESTER, S. C., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1908.

A Case of Deep Felting.
That nothing is too small to escape the notice of a clever reporter is again illustrated by the following: "Mr. Toomey, the well-known editor of the Chester County Register, reports that a man in York County has been found that good sense has lately departed from, who for some reason or other has been wearing a felt hat on his head while skating. The hat was so closely fitted that, when the man fell, his ears were left behind.

A Pugilistic Election Tax.
The state has long been known as the political battle-ground of the country, but it was not expected that the struggle would be so intense as it has been in the current election. In many parts of the state the candidates are fighting for the election in a way that has never been known before. The result is that the state is now divided into two parts, with the candidates in each part fighting for the victory. The candidates are not the only ones who are fighting, however, for the voters are also engaged in a fight to see who will get the best of the deal.

North Carolina Legislature, Etc.
Resolutions
A resolution was adopted in the state legislature that will be of great interest to the people of the state. The resolution provides that all elections in the state shall be held by secret ballot, and that no person shall be permitted to vote more than once in each election. The resolution also provides that no person shall be permitted to vote for more than one candidate in each election, and that no person shall be permitted to vote for more than one candidate in each office. The resolution is expected to be of great benefit to the people of the state, as it will prevent the possibility of the same person voting for two candidates in one election, and it will also prevent the possibility of the same person voting for two candidates in two different elections.

Small Girls.
In these days of low-priced newspapers, it is not surprising that there should be a great deal of rivalry among the newspapers in trying to get the attention of the public. The newspapers are now fighting for the attention of the public in a way that has never been known before. The result is that the newspapers are now divided into two parts, with the newspapers in each part fighting for the victory. The newspapers are not the only ones who are fighting, however, for the people are also engaged in a fight to see who will get the best of the deal.

Buy One, Get One Free.
The public has long been known as the greatest advertisement, and it is not surprising that the newspapers should be taking advantage of this fact in trying to get the attention of the public. The newspapers are now offering a great deal of incentive to the people to read their papers, and they are offering a great deal of benefit to the people who do read their papers. The result is that the newspapers are now divided into two parts, with the newspapers in each part offering the best of the deal.
