ATTEND CONFERENCE

The program next Saturday, May 14, will be a very pleasant trip to Atlanta. The college auditorium for the occasion was taken to the University of Kentucky. The program consisted of music by Misses Jeffries and Cohen in combination, with a very charming performance of the orchestra. The guests were entertained at a delightful banquet. On Hero Worship

W. R. Davies

"Worship of a hero," says Carlyle, "is the transcendental absurdity par excellence."

Our ideas of greatness have changed constantly, and our heroes cease to be heroes only in that sense.

All of us have been hero-worshipers at one time or another, and we should not regard it as if we had a right to select heroes for ourselves and other people.

We know the object of each hero-worship with which we are familiar, and the heroes we have in our own lives are those who are nearest to us.

To those, however, who have been inspired by the immortal words of Ovid, "Be a hero to yourself," we can add:

"Be a hero to your friends, too, and you will live in infamy." —Anonymous

About ten men have received their notices, and although there has been no talk of severing a relationship, it is understood that these men have been fired, in part, because of the current belief that interest rates are too high,
