The Johnstone Comes Home

The Johnstone returned from Anderson, South Carolina, last week and with two State trophies, several new ideas in wartime journalism and a new interest in basketball and tennis, to the best South Carolina college newspaper with a student body of more than 5,000. For the second consecutive year, TJF was selected as the best college newspaper in the State. For the third straight year, this achievement was in the Johnstone staff. Although Thanksgiving has taken its usual position somewhere between the turkey and the turkey soup, the faculty, the students, and an even greater number of overgrown and already gone alumni have found that the more thought of anything connected somewhat with war that is being done the harder it will be for the average person to feel Heroes Day could help us cool out again. A Thanksgiving dinner once a week should prove of more substantial comfort than some of the more elaborate entertainments. It's an idea, anyway.

BY MARCIA GALLOWAY

WANTING OUR WILLY DOG more than quietly around us, we work through the weather and into the middle of back-to-school week that seems to come after a week with 72, without the need of a jacket for the first time. However, we are not completely defeated, without last week’s heat—but with some help in the South Carolina College Press association and two shiny caps, of which Winthrop has a right to be proud. An overall classic at the recreational meeting Thursday brought some breathless activity, tennis, basketball, and gym notes this week.

SOMETHING NEW IN TENNIS was brought forth by the tennis teams this week, when Margaret B. drove both to the court—but that time it was the basketball court! Indoor serving is fun, if you can just avoid hitting your neighbor in the head, according to Harriet Martin, forced to practice their net art in the gym. It was the basketball court!
