College Life Encouraged In Special Issue

Spring popularity means blossoming green, lovely weather, and spring fever, but at Winthrop, spring has more serious meaning. Here in the journalism department, spring means that the Miss-Hi Miss edition of The Johnsonian is ready to go to press.

First of all, in preparing this special issue of the college publication, Miss-Hi Misses from all over the state are elected. Some campus organizations, such as the Student Government association, and senior class, were elected Miss-Hi Misses in 1943 as Radar Home, and William-Eli high schools, respectively.

The Miss-Hi Miss edition of The Johnsonian is published each year for the purpose of explaining every phase of college life to the incoming class of 1944. With this issue, the student is given a heads start and a guide to the future. The Miss-Hi Miss edition of The Johnsonian will give you the facts about Winthrop.

"Powers Behind Throne" Keep Winthrop Running Smoothly, Efficiently

Seven "powers behind the throne," headed by President Henry R. Sims, keep Winthrop running smoothly and efficiently. These college officials, with offices located on the first floor of Main building, carry on the functions of administration.

The president's office is on the left side of the wide hall as one enters Main building via the front door. Dr. Sims' office is staffed by his secretary and assistant. The business manager, A. M. Tucker, has his office next door to the president's office. Handling all business affairs, Mr. Graham plans the various services, before the hall, and has charge of the Winthrop farm.

Student Records

Across the hall, is the Registrar's office under the supervision of John G. Kelly. Student records are filed in this office, and testing programs are planned for the students by this department of the administration. Registrar Kelly is chairman of the committee on scholarships, and directs the Student Records Bureau at Winthrop.

In her office are filed student personnel records; also, students apply for leaves of absence through this office.

Mr. Bruce Waters, administrative director, may be found directly across the hall. Mr. Waters is responsible for, and controls, the operation and supervision of all college buildings and grounds, maintenance of College houses and apartments, and has control of all motor vehicles and repair, janitorial, and janitorial workers, and janitors.

Middle Hall

If the student revisits her steps in the middle of the hall and turns the corner, she will be between the News Service and the office of the Academic Dean of the college.

At the other end of the hall is the office of Mrs. Kate Glenn Hardin, dean of women. Mrs. Hardin has charge of campus social life and student activities; excellent Artists and Lecture counselors. Winthrop offers the advantages of a big school: Course In Commercial Science. Yet, it retains the values of a small school: small classes, close direction by teachers and counselors.

Winthrop SGA Promotes High Ideals On Campus

Administration Personnel Are Backbone, Foundation of WC Events

Every Winthrop student is automatically a member of the Student Government Association. The SGA strives to promote student loyalty to the best interest of the College; to maintain the best conditions for scholarly work and the development of character; and to establish wholesome attitudes and high ideals. The Student Government association has three branches: the legislative, the executive, and the judicial.

Legislative Branch

The legislative branch is made up of the Senate, a body of about thirty students who are members either by virtue of the office they hold, or are elected by the four classes. This body makes regulations in regular parliamentary procedure. The regulations passed by the Senate, the Faculty-Student committee, and the president of the College become permanent rules under SGA if the SGA sees need to change them.

The executive branch is composed of the executive officers, the finance officers, and the standing committee chairman. It is the duty of this branch to enforce regulations and to encourage as good an atmosphere as possible in the dormitories on the campus. The judicial branch is the Stu- dent Court to try major infractions of any regulations. All SGA officers are elected by the student body as a whole. It is through this organization that the students are able to govern themselves for themselves about any situation that arises on the campus.

Home Ec Department Outlines Aims

Better Homemakers Is Goal Of This Part Of Winthrop Curriculum

Well-rounded Life, Arts, Understanding of Self, Included In Program

The freshman question, "What shall I choose as my major?" was answered one day by a home economics junior who pointed to the catalogue offering in the home economics department.

"The catalog gives a list of objectives of the home economics department—objectives that are a challenge to any American girl just beginning college," said the junior.

Upon further questioning a great many worthwhile things were learned about the home economics department at Winthrop college.

Among these findings were: the department in so far as it helps each girl plan her own life and education, gain experience in independent thought and self-directed activity, develop her own use of talents and abilities, and build a wholesome attitude toward opportunities in the home of homemaking.

The course of study for each sophomore is planned by the students themselves with advice from various faculty members. Cases in food, clothing, and home management offer opportunities for the improvement or development of homemaking skills.

The home economics department also strives to help girls develop a realization of the need for suitable redecoration and social order, to practice carefully the proper use of space and time, and to appreciate more fully the arts and ways of living. Special visiting schools, the presence of home economics classes, and room discussion offer unlimited possibilities for the use of current English. Fine art, music appreciation, and literature teach the girl to appreciate the beauty of nature.

Through These Portals... Sophomores In Course For Effective Living Practice in Conforming To Budget Learnt by Girls

Managing on a small scale is practiced by girls taking the Sophomore course, Managing for Effective Living, in which they keep up the two apartments in Thurmond hall for 10 days under Miss Flinn's leadership.

There are two apartments, one on the fourth floor and another on the fifth floor. The fourth floor apartment has three rooms— combination living and dining room, a bedroom, and a kitchen. The apartment is occupied by three girls, who, for three meals a day, buy the groceries, prepare the meals, and clean the apartment, which they keep up with all their other work.

The "penthouse," on the fifth floor, is a small red brick cottage that looks like the ideal home. Dollars are spent on the room, a living room with small tables for tea, a playroom, a kitchen, where food is prepared by a hired cook assigned to the apartment. The bedrooms are on second floor and the children take care of every other activity.

"Come on in and join us, the grass is fine," say the enthusiastic members of Miss Sarah E. Craigwell's class in Landscape and Garden Planning.

This co-semester course is offered for the first time this year and is open to anyone who is interested. The class procedure consists of classroom discussion, lectures, and practical planning and planting. Half of the semester's time is devoted to an intensive study of basic garden planning both on large and small scales. The advantages and proper placement of outdoor flowers are carefully studied and discussed. All types of garden plants, annuals, perennials, shrubs, trees, roses, bulbs, vines, and small trees are studied. The girls give reports on these flowers, showing informative aides with the reports.

Senior Majors Live In Practice House, Cottage

A Winthrop home economics major's life is just beginning when she becomes a senior and is eligible to enter the Home Management house or cottage for a six week stay.

"The House," as it is known to Winthropians, is on the corner across the street from Senior hall, and "The Cottage" is in its neighborhood.

Seven or eight seniors live in "The House" for intervals of six weeks under the supervision of Miss Denise Clay. They plan, make, clean, prepare meals, and entertain in social functions, such as teas, luncheons, informal dinners, dessert parties, and buffet suppers. "The House" is a large two-story frame structure, while "The Cottage" is a small one-story frame house with a wide front porch. Miss Telma Malone, housekeeper for the home management department, is the adviser to the cottage girls.

"The house" or the fifth floor apartment is called, has an economics living room which shares a small eastern bedroom with the kitchen. The kitchen is very small, but it is equipped with various appliances and refrigerator. As a result, five girls take this responsibility for 16 days.

Living within a budget economically requires careful planning, and it doesn't take the apartment girls long to realize this.

The Citizens of Rock Hill Bid A Heartly "Welcome" to You Students Who Choose Winthrop For The Continuation of Your Education

Rock Hill Is A Good Town!

The Legendary "charm of the old South" is embodied in Rock Hill, an alert industrial and institutional center of about 20,000 inhabitants.

Located in the center of the two Carolinas, 80 miles north of Columbia, S. C., and 25 miles south of Charlotte, N. C., Rock Hill is the home of Winthrop College.

For the last half century is has been the privilege of the citizens of this town to welcome approximately 1,600 students to Winthrop yearly.

The entire atmosphere surrounding the college is clean and wholesome. Students who understand the importance of pleasant and convenient surroundings will appreciate the advantages of the campus which is open from 8:45 a.m. to 2 o'clock p.m. five days a week.

The campus is located about one mile from the shopping district where there are many stores and other businesses to supply the needs of Winthrop girls.

Making it possible for the girl to secure a practical position, office training is combined with home economics. In many offices of this type of combination is highly appreciated. A girls with this training should find positions open to her in the office of concerns and federal offices.

The campus of Rock Hill is a picturesque slice of the old South, and the citizens today are just as hospitable as they were yesterday.

This will be a busy year at Winthrop, with many events scheduled.

Carnegie Library Is Winthrop’s Intelligentsia Spot

WC Library Is Used As Study, Relaxation Center

Building Has Spacious Rooms, Large Collection

Carnegie library with its treasure of books, spacious rooms, and air of quiet dignity is one of the most beautiful and most used buildings on Winthrop’s campus. Some students come to the library to study undisturbed; others come to find class reference assignments; and still others come to lose themselves for a while in the spell of stories and magazines.

Ample Reading Room

The building itself is large. The walls of all the rooms are decorated with portraits of famous men and busts of distinguished men of literature. Within each of these rooms, there is an ample supply of wide tables where visitors may spread out their books to study or write. Also there is a supply of 200 current magazines and eight daily newspapers which offer reading pleasure and up-to-the-minute news. Many county publications are sent in so that girls all over the State may read their home town news.

The most important room, the stacks, contains the majority of the building’s collection of 64,111 books. These books are arranged according to type or subject in an easily accessible manner. Girls are taught the organization of the library during their freshman year in order that it may be used to a greater advantage.

Reference Room

In addition to the reading matter offered for pleasure, Carnegie library affords the Winthrop students many sources of reference for research in their class assignments. The card catalogue and Reader’s Guide aid them in locating all available material on a certain subject.

Next year, the library is planning to continue its Sunday afternoon book reviews started recently. At these reviews, some member of the faculty discusses the work of a prominent author. The library staff hopes that an even wider interest in these occasions can be brought about next year.

The staff, headed by Dr. Frances Leader Spain, librarian, includes Mrs. Mai Rutledge Johnson, assistant librarian, Miss Catherine Dusenberry, cataloguer, Miss Catherine Slaughter, order librarian, and Miss Nona Bess Watson, who is in charge of periodicals.

Winthrop Students Flock To Conservatory For Daily Study, Practices

Job Opportunities Are Numerous For Potential WC Music Majors

"The music goes round and round and it's good to be a part of it." Every day students flock to the Conservatory at Winthrop's prize building, the Conservatory, to practice piano, voice, violin, and organ in order to make their careers as musicians.

Music majors may look forward to numerous employment opportunities. They can become teachers of applied music, instrumental and vocal solosists and ensemble players, accompanists and conductors, both in the concert and radio fields, or leaders of music activities in industry.

Entrance Examination

Students desiring to work for a B.S. degree in music must pass an entrance examination in three main fields of study. All A.B. and B.S. students non-music majors studying for credit, must enroll in certain planned courses.

Winthrop's music department not only offers a thorough musical training to those interested primarily in receiving degrees in music, but also has courses for those who want a general and less intensive training.

Appreciation of music, a necessary course for prospective teachers, involves a thorough study of a number of masterpieces representing the various periods of music composition. Another unit of instruction in the fundamentals of music also develops the students' musical appreciation.

Ensemble Units Generous With Many Programs

Highly regarded the instrumental music programs of the conservatory are the Winthrop College Orchestra, the Band and the Swanks, independent music clubs at College campus here and at other South Carolina schools.

The College Orchestra is open to all players of string, wood-wind, brass, and percussion instruments who have a talent for music and are able to play at sight. All violin students are required to belong to this organization. The membership is 50, but any appearing at any informal occasion presents two formal programs with solos each year.

For its marching and drill band, the Band is also composed of 10 players. Membership is open to all players of band instruments who have had some band experience and instruction on some instrument. Besides its appearances on many informal programs such as assemblies, the Band is presented normally twice a year.

The Swanks, independent College orchestra, is the campus dance band. The red and white uniforms of its members are a familiar sight at many campus social functions. In addition to Winthrop College dances, the Swanks often are engaged for appearances at other schools and institutions of the State.

Conservatory Gives Practice Pleasure

Main habitat of the musically inclined is the Conservatory, equipped with excellent pianos and organs. The music department has eight pianos, two concert organs, a Hammond Electric, and a practice organ. Numerous rehearsal studios in the Conservatory, along with practice rooms, insure study under the best conditions for students.

The Conservatory has, in the past, endeavored to bring to its members a better understanding of well-known American and European compositions. Various talks and discussions were made to enlighten on members of subjects related to music and composers.

Membership in the various choirs or organizations is open to College students who have good voices and singing ability. The Glee Club and Chorus appear at many formal and informal occasions both on and off campus.

At present, there are approximately 100 students enrolled as members of the College Glee Club and Chorus. Each year membership expands in a formal recital at least twice a year. The College choir, consisting of students and men from women's plants from the Rock Hill community, presents a formal choral recital in the spring.

The College Concert Society (tied with the String Ensemble) are smaller organizations which appear alone at many formal and informal occasions both on and off campus.

FIRST UNIFORMS

Dr. D. B. Johnson, founder and first president of Winthrop, believed that uniforms were made for a democratic spirit and were more economical. First complete uniforms for a year consisted of a white full uniform suit, one double-breasted jacket, and a white waistcoat for everyday, three white shirts, two long white aprons and one white town cap.

In every way this firm does its part to make Rock Hill a great city for a great school. Make our store your headquarters while at Winthrop. We would like to take this opportunity to welcome you to Winthrop and Rock Hill. Our heartfelt congratulations to the Miss-Hi-Misses of 1946!
Commerce Field Has Many Career Courses

Winthrop Graduates Hold Good Positions

Shorthand, Typing Are Offered
In Department Studies

The click, click of a typewriter and the hum-drum of a mimeograph machine mark the activity of the commerce department of Winthrop college. If the Miss Hi Miss is interested in becoming an expert stenographer or a stenographic reporter, she will want to "join-up" with the two-year commercial students. April high school is provided for those interested in teaching business subjects.

Typing, shorthand, marketing, money and banking, business finance, and accounting are among the courses offered for those seeking a business career.

The commerce department is open to all students. If you have the journalism and have "yen" for a commerce too, you can study the combination. Commerce is also combined with a home economics course.

Educational trips are planned for students of the department to better acquaint them with modern business methods. This year the introduction to business classes were taken to one of the IBM machines and to the printing company.

Career Girls

Many of the commerce graduates hold responsible positions. Former women of the navy and white are employed by Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, Southern Railway, Tennessee Eastman Corporation, and many other business establishments. After graduation, approximately 21 Winthrop girls had positions in business at birthplace of the atom bomb. Former wearers of the navy and ly 20 junior majors during the second semester. The club is sponsored by the department of Winthrop college.

Field Trips Are Taken In Economics

Do you know what makes so much literature, commodity, and stock markets tick? You will learn the and many other business administrative terms in the economic course offered at Winthrop college?

Two courses in the study of economics are listed in the College catalogue. Introduction to economics gives the student an acquaintance with some of the important aspects of production distribution, exchange, money, and income. It is a one-semester course.

The elements of economics — two-semester course, teaches the elements of the study of industry, labor power, price systems, and business changes as they occur in a economic life.

This year, the economic class "back off" for Charlotte to visit the stock exchange and department store. The girls soon back with a new "air" about stock market and an understand-of personal and department store work in the large stores.

Economics is open to any student. Four-year commerce majors are required to take the course and economics students are other majors of various fields usually choose it as an elective.

W. V. Badger has taught commerce during the past year, one of the 25 students who have in members with modern business problems.

The annual trip to Charlotte, made by Beta Alpha members last year, included a visit to the Federal Land Mortgage Office and

The Charlotte News.

The annual trip of commerce is hosted by Dr. Harold Gilford.

Business classes, and an annual field trip to the Southern Land of the University of North Carolina extension service, is an annual field trip.

The study of economics is to the student and to the business men of the area.

The students of the commerce department are "jubilant" students, and purchase expeditions.

Athletic Clubs, WAA, Tournaments High Light Winthrop Sport's Whirl

Athletic clubs and tournaments just seem to go together here at Winthrop. Whether it's fall, winter or spring, there's always an exciting tournament being played either in the gym or on the athletic field. To give you an idea of Winthrop's sports' whirl, it will be necessary to begin by introducing the Athletic Association.

The Winthrop Athletic Association is one of the top organizations on the campus. Every student is automatically a member, and every student is urged to participate in some active sports club. This premise participation is universal and further good sportsmanship. This year is carrying it a step further, for the yearbook brought representatives from several colleges in South Carolina to the campus to participate. There are now 11 activity clubs supervised by the Athletic Association, so no matter what your sport is, there's a club waiting to add your name to its roll.

Basketball is a major sport on the campus because of the intense rivalry between classes, as well as the interest of the student body. It is a perfect sport for team play, and the cheering section is usually quite enthusiastic. Basketball is also a unifying sport, bringing together a diverse group of students.

Hockey is the major sport on campus. The members of the hockey team from time to time take part in tournaments and games, either at home or away.

Basketball meets twice a week, and the members of the hockey team meet once a week. The members of the hockey team are therefore able to participate in both sports.

High school sports, such as football and track, are also popular at Winthrop. The football team is one of the top organizations on the campus, and the track team is also one of the top organizations. These teams are very competitive and always have exciting games.

The Winthrop Athletic Association is a fun and exciting place to be, with plenty of opportunities for students to get involved in a variety of sports and activities. Whether you're a competitive athlete or just looking to get some exercise, there's something for everyone at the Winthrop Athletic Association.
Native Puerto Rican Is Brought To Winthrop
Campus To Train Students In Spanish Tongue

Mrs. de Munoz, much interested in Poetry, Journalism, Teaching
And Social Problems

Typical of the kind of “extra courses Winthrop college gives to students majoring in other courses, designated in the department, according to Dr. Donnis Martin, department head.

Member of the student council, Mrs. de Munoz, was born in Puerto Rico and the removed there when she was a child. After moving to the United States, she went to school in the public schools of New York City and in 1923 received her bachelor of arts degree from Hunter College.

Armed with the education and experience she received in New York, Mrs. de Munoz decided to return to Puerto Rico and make it her home.

She then taught in the public schools of Puerto Rico for several years before making the decision to come to the United States again.

In 1928, she received her master of arts degree from the University of Puerto Rico.

In 1930, she married Hugo A. de Munoz, a prominent journalist and public figure in Puerto Rico.

Together, they raised a family and continuously worked to advance the cause of the Puerto Rican people.

After her husband’s death, Mrs. de Munoz continued to work in journalism and education in Puerto Rico, becoming a respected figure in the country’s cultural and political spheres.

In 1946, she was appointed to a teaching position at Winthrop college, bringing with her a wealth of experience and knowledge about Puerto Rican culture.

At Winthrop, she introduced courses in Spanish and Puerto Rican studies, providing students with a deeper understanding of the language and heritage.

Her contributions to the department and to the students at Winthrop college have been invaluable, and her legacy continues to influence future generations of students.

Consisting of courses in French, German, and Spanish, the modern language department offers students a broad range of options to explore different cultures and languages.

All B.A. students, and also B.S. students in music, take courses in their major language, as well as courses in related fields to further their understanding.

Modern Language teachers include Elizabeth Johnson, head of the department, Mr. Frank Harried, Mr. Louis G. Back, and Mrs. Teresa de Munoz, previous chair of the Spanish department.

Four clubs operate in conjunction with the modern language department.

I. Cercle Franciologique selects its members from students who make French a habit on one semester or a year in their studies. Open to upperclassmen taking elective work in French with an average of 80 per cent.
In addition, the Cercle Franciologique encourages members to join other French clubs on campus.

II. German club, Deutscher Verein, exists for the benefit of those who plan to make German a career.

III. Circulo Castellano, Spanish club, Die Deutsche Gesellschaft, and Circulo Espanol are open to Spanish students who are interested in the language.

IV. Classic club, Eta Sigma Phi, national classics club, provides members with a deeper understanding of the classics.

At Winthrop, Mrs. de Munoz continues to inspire students with her passion for the Puerto Rican culture and language.
Sometime late in the spring every year comes The Junior Follies. This play is written, produced, and acted by the juniors. It usually portrays campus life, and everyone gets a big kick out of it, even the hard working juniors.

"Pay your money and take your choice." Will you sit in the balcony or will you sit downstairs? No matter which you prefer the entertainment in movies is always the same. It's a good 'ol' Winthrop custom to go to the movies on Saturday night and see the best in shows—all for a dime.

Whether you’re a “glamor gal” or not, you’ll be filling up the date book on week-ends with your name and those of your dates; and you’ll be having plenty of fun doing it, too.

With the advent of Christmas time, there is always an increase of parties. Nearly all of the different clubs have them and, of course, you will want to have your own in the dormitory.

Time! Play Time!

One of the Big Events comes the artist have the opportunity of seeing and hear singers, pianists, ballet groups. The photo is of Eugene Ormandy, conductor of the South Carolina Symphony orchestra.

If you're going to be well informed, of course, you won't miss the lecture series. The Business office very capably selects many world renowned speakers to lecture on varied subjects. Above you see Carl Van Doren, author-critic, conversing with two Winthrop students.

One of the things that a freshman (meaning you) will put down in her little book to remember is the freshman talent show. Each Y counselor's group gets a skit and the winners are decided by a group of judges. Of course, there are prizes for the winners.

Some wonderful Maurice again. (If you're one of the lucky ones going) you'll start off on a hike to the shack. After a superb supper, (of course it will be superb because you cook it yourself) you'll hike back to the campus for the show, if you're energetic. In the morning you'll come back to the campus in time for church.

"Happy Day" when you are a junior or senior. Then you can go off gaily to the junior-senior dance while the freshmen and sophomores watch with envious eyes.

Of course no day would be complete without those famous bull sessions at the end of the day. You'll share your joys and troubles with the friends you'll be making in the dormitories.

Homeward Bound! When that time comes—several times a year—you'll catch the bus in your brightest and prettiest clothes.
Varied Program In Social Science Offered At Winthrop

Growing History Field Is Re-Shaped For New Needs

Offering many new and interesting courses, the Winthrop history department under the direction of Dr. A. L. Venable, has undergone a number of changes this year. For this the year is being regarded as being of prime importance in the department as well as more general importance in the university. Among the new courses offered this year are the following: History of the Far East, China, Japan, India and related nations; History of the Middle East, the Near East and the Western Movement in American History.

Two other courses are being introduced which are designed especially for history majors, one of which is a course in directed research, in which the student may select certain topics of interest and study them in the field of history. The other course is planned to aid the students in learning to find and evaluate sources in materials in American history. There are also new courses in South Carolina history being prepared, and these will be added to the regular courses as soon as possible according to Dr. Venable. They will serve South Carolina's growing interest in its history and the students of the state who have studied this history will find these new courses a valuable supplement to their studies.

A concern with history is increased among young women, and the study of history is rapidly growing among both young women and young men. A new course in human geography is being offered this year by Mrs. Ruth Roettinger, of the department of sociology. This course is designed to aid the young woman in her preparation for social work, and to provide a more broad understanding of the world in which she lives. The course is divided into three major parts: political affairs in the world, economics and political affairs in the world, and the study of social conditions and problems.

Many Interests Are Served By Clubs

The major aim of this department is to interest young women in the study of history and to provide them with a broader understanding of the world in which they live. The course is divided into three major parts: political affairs in the world, economics and political affairs in the world, and the study of social conditions and problems.

Practical Is Stressed In Department Of Sociology

The students of the sociology department are offered a practical laboratory in the study of social sciences, which is being enlarged to meet the needs for preparation to enter social work. The laboratory consists of several sub-divisions under various topics which are often engaged to speak on the department's programs. The topics include current events and social problems, upon reaching the United States, are employed in the various fields of this type. The campus includes a number of changes this year. The building of the new Winthrop hall was the third dormitory to be built on the Winthrop campus, and the campus is being expanded to meet the needs for preparation to enter social work.

Living--Is Goal Of Government Courses Here

The study of government at Winthrop, under the direction of Miss Ruth Roettinger, offers courses which are designed to show the ways in which government is being used in the United States and other countries. Students are given an opportunity to study and compare major world governments and world political affairs.

The courses include American government, which covers the principles of political affairs in the national and state governments. Social legislation, designed to aid the student in her preparation for social work, is included in this course. The course also covers the principles of political affairs in the national and state governments. The course also covers the principles of political affairs in the national and state governments.

One of the big issues this year at Winthrop is the election of student officers. At this time girls get practical experience in how government operates.

Geography Prepares For Entrance Into Many Fields

Geography, the "forgotten subject," is coming into its own. Winthrop courses, under the direction of Dr. E. L. Terry, cover student needs for preparation to enter agricultural school, research, teaching, land-use planning, and related occupations. Mrs. Vera Raleigh is also a member of the teaching staff.

Human geography, which introduces the student to the study of the world, teaches man's adjustment to his environment and his relation to the world. The course also provides a broad understanding of the world in which the student lives. The course is divided into three major parts: political affairs in the world, economics and political affairs in the world, and the study of social conditions and problems.

The geography of Europe is covered in this course, and a variety of topics are covered, including the study of the world, the places of political affairs in the world, and the study of social conditions and problems. The course also covers the principles of political affairs in the national and state governments.

Sociology students are also inducted into various social organizations, which are often engaged to speak on the department's programs. The geography of the world is made.

Poetry, Prose Are Products Of Four Clubs

Working in close cooperation with the English department are four clubs that promote creative thinking in the fields of poetry and prose.

Signs of Pious Kipka is open to all senior English majors. Dr. Paul M. Wheeler, head of the English department, is faculty sponsor of this organization.

The Writers' club is open to all students who have proved themselves to be excellent students of English literature.

Creative writing in the English department is the aim of Creative Writers. Dr. Donald Martin, head of the department, is faculty advisor to the club. Membership in the club is open to beginners.

Parnassus, also sponsored by Dr. Paul Wheeler, is a poetry club for students who show ability and interest in poetry through their writings. Meetings are held monthly.

The Editors, sponsored by the Journal and Writers club, is open to any student who is interested in writing and who desires to improve through actual practice. Creative material written by club members is discussed monthly by the faculty members led by the head of the department, Dr. Donald Martin, and faculty advisor for this organization.

Meetings for any course other than the freshmen English course are limited to visiting the laboratory during some of the time it is to be discussed or to the study of a student who has attended. Attendance is entirely voluntary, though students are encouraged to come as regularly as possible.

All Phases Of Campus Life Covered By Publications

The English department at Winthrop, aside from being one of the largest and best equipped, provides social activities for those majoring in that field.

Each year some special form of entertainment is presented. This year a "Robert Burns Party" was sponsored by the faculty. To create the atmosphere, the English department will sponsor two girls from the physical education department, and a member of the music faculty to sing some favorite songs, and a movie of Robert Burns' life will be shown.

Typical of the types of entertainments presented is the Conference room. The Conference room is a place of relaxation and study and also art work by a chosen art student.

All Phases Of Campus Life Covered By Publications

The purpose of the club is to provide a spirit of friendliness and cooperation among the publications.

Members of the club are the editors, associate editors, business manager of the Journal, the editor and business manager of the Tatler, and the editorial, design and business manager of the Johnsonian.

Meeting every month to discuss work being done by the publications, the club plans on improvements and issues cooperation among the "big three" organizations.

All Phases Of Campus Life Covered By Publications

The "bookshelf" serves as a guide to the freshman throughout the first year of college. The student is given a complete survey of the courses which are offered on the campus. The Winthrop college and English faculty are written not only to give the freshman an idea of what is in store for her, but also to make the government of the College possible.

The English majors enjoy social activities, too. For majors in English, junior and senior, the Winthrop college and English department dance a "Robert Burns" party. The English majors and business manager of the Tatler, and the editors, associate editors, and business manager of the Johnsonian, the Tatler, and the design editor will have a "Robert Burns" party.

WC’ers Learn Function Of Chemistry, Physics

Under the guidance of Dr. Glenn G. Thrall, the chemistry and physics department strive to acquaint Winthrop students with knowledge that deals with chemical and mechanical phases of their lives.

Among the various courses offered are general inorganic chemistry which presents a study of the general properties of the elements and their compounds. The courses in general organic chemistry for physical education students with practical application to health problems in the PE field, is taken in the junior year. Some economics students will be included in a study of applied physics with practical applications taken from the home to household projects.

Delta Alpha, honorary chemistry club, is open to all chemistry students who are interested in furthering their knowledge in the field of chemistry, and who have a high scholarship. Also, the aim of Delta Alpha Alpha are to stimulate scientific interest, to help individual ability, and to encourage the practical application of results of scientific research. The showing of scientific films, laboratory demonstrations, and lectures by outstanding scientists and students furthers the aim and purpose of the organization.

Campus Clubs Are Open To Math-Minded

Two mathematics organizations operate on the campus for those who are mathematically inclined. The National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, national honorary, at Winthrop is the only chapter of this kind in an undergraduate school. Dr. Ruth Stokes, head of the mathematics department, and Miss Ellen Rauer, secretary in the mathematics department, are co-presidents of the club.

Discussion of nation-wide topics in teaching mathematics in high schools and subjects related to mathematics are discussed by club members.

Future "Curies" Experiment

Will be introduced in the coming fall quarter, according to Dr. S. L. Thorndike, astronomy professor. The fundamental conceptions of the celestial spheres, a study of their properties and motions, and the historical development of modern concepts and theories concerning them will be studied.

Mrs. W. V. Badger and Dr. Josephine Mitchell also teach in the mathematics department.

Field Of Commercial Art Is Widening Every Day For Winthrop Majors

The field of commercial art is burgeoning every day, and more Winthrop students are becoming aware of the fact. The art department at Winthrop college offers a wide variety of subjects and courses for girls who wish to major in this field. In fact, many girls are taking a few courses in art for their personal satisfactions.

Miss Annie Dunn is head of the department, and Miss Bessey Gardner is an associate professor. Throughout the year the students practice on exhibit and class work. Many different phases of art are studied. The student begins with freehand drawing, then learns to handle charcoal, oil, watercolor, pen and tempera. A course on the history of art gives strong background in the field. Courses in costume designing, creative art work for children, and for girls planning to teach, and clay modeling are offered.

Much outdoor work is done in the composition and painting class. The girls learn organization, color, and line by sketching and painting scenes on the campus.

The clay modeling class is a popular one. In this course, students learn to model plaques, busts, pottery, and figures out of plastic and clay. Winthrop art majors have gone into many different types of positions following graduation. Many do further work in special art schools; a large number put their knowledge into practice through teaching, and yet many others acquire valuable experience in drafting or architectural jobs.

Zeal, Talent Are Requisites For Art Clubs

Kappa Pi is a national honorary fine arts fraternity. Membership in this chapter here is the goal towards which every Winthrop art major aims. Junior and senior art majors who have maintained a certain standard in their work are eligible for membership.

Brush and Palette, art club affiliated in the campus, is for students who are interested in the field of art and have talent along this line.

There are countless other traditions at Winthrop, with each one as rich a part of the campus as the other. These traditions, and students enjoying in them, assure Winthrop the fine institution of higher learning she is today.

Winthrop, like all progressive schools, is established with roots in past traditions. There are many traditions of the school besides the navy blue, and these traditions all together make for the great college she is.

For instance, the first tradition of the year at Winthrop comes during freshman orientation week when the President and his wife greet the new students at an informal supper followed by a dance.

Perhaps the most beautiful traditional event of the year is the May Day exercises. This event takes place on the first Saturday in May, when the queen of the May is crowned, surrounded by the court of 18 beauties selected from the four classes. That night the freshmen class plays host to the seniors with activities the usual banquet followed by an informal supper in an informal reception at their homes. A dance or an informal supper followed by a dance. These “Y” groups also compete in freshman “Blue Line,” for the prize offered for the best freshman entrance of the evening. This is held sometime during first semester.

The Pep meet and hockey tournament attract wide attention when the four classes meet in the auditorium to “Pull It Out” to win the title of “Most Spirited Class of the Year,” as well as a cup. The next day starts the hockey season, which lasts for a week, with the top honors going to the “Champ.”

Another tradition at Winthrop is the Junior Follies. The juniors present a student-written and directed folley in April for the purpose of raising money for Junior-Senior. The week before graduation is known as “Senior Week.” It begins Monday, with senior chapel, when the graduating class assembles and the Senior Steps are presented. The seniors present a student-written and directed folley on the last weekend in April, with a benediction, and the annual dedication of Senior Steps. These steps are a feature of the Administration building.

Christian Fellowship In Living Is Encouraged

Upon becoming a Winthrop daughter, every girl automatically becomes a member of the Young Women's Christian Association. Shortly after the beginning of school, each student is given a chance to apply for active membership to a committee on which she would like to serve throughout the year. The committees include the executive committee, the corporate worship committee, the discussion committee, the feature committee, the membership committee, the publicity committee, the recreation committee, the women's committee, and the youth committee. These committees give every student a chance to become a Christian fellowworker as a member of the Y.W.C.A., and welcomes every girl who joins any of its smaller groups.

Ron Nichols is the acting secretary of the club. Mrs. Thacker is the president of the club, and is pastor at the First Baptist church on Main street. Rev. A. S. Rogers is as pastor at the church. The Bible club meets on every Wednesday at 7:00 p.m. in the Episcopal Student center across from the freshman dormitory.

BSU Has Noon Devotions As Daily Feature

This year Baptists keep the list in the number of girls belonging to their group, the Baptist Student Union. Attending Winthrop this year are 558 Baptist students, and every girl who joins any of its smaller groups. The Baptist club meets on every Wednesday at 7:00 p.m. in the B.S.U. special feature—times for "the praise that meditates."

Of special interest to freshmen are the freshman counselors who live in Rock Hill or commute to Winthrop to attend Spring Retreat and Fall Convention for Baptist college students. Among the first Baptist churches are: St. Anne's Catholic church on Saluda street in downtown Rock Hill, the Protestant church on Oakwood avenue, without moving membership from their home churches. Of special interest to freshmen are the freshman counselors who live in the freshman dormitories but are there to help the new student. There are the freshman counselors who are there to help the new student in any way possible. There are the freshman counselors who are there to help them get over tough spots at a new, strange place. New Methodist Student Center Fills Many Needs

One of the greatest needs of the Winthrop family, of Methodist students, is a student center—home for the student, a house adjacent to the campus for headquarters. That need is now a reality! The fine, new house is two doors above Senior hall on Oakland avenue. The director has her office in the house, and is always on hand for personal conferences, club, committee work, etc. The library and lounge room, and kitchen are available to the students and all are invited to use the miniature chapel for individual or small group worship. The house is open all day for Methodist students.

Newman Club For Catholic Girls Is Active On Campus

The Winthrop Newman club is a member of the National Federation of Newman clubs along with the many other Southeastern colleges, and it sends delegates each year to the State convention in Columbia, in connection with the College, of Charleston, Cooper, and the University of South Carolina.
