It's all right for "Johnny to Get His Gun" in a song on the 1971 Hit Parade, and as a gaudily-colored figure on a recruiting poster. That's all right, but when John and Johnny steps out of the song and out of the poster, that's different. It's not just Johnny then, but Bathe, and Dick, and Charlie, and the ugly boy on the next block, who tripped you on your first pair of skates, and guffawed when you experimented with your first lipstick, and stuck down his cowlick to squelch you from your secret desire.

We have some idea what middle-aged senators say about conscription. They've accented the political air and issued pompous wordy statements for and against; they've tried to veer with the election-year wind, we know that. But we'd like to get closer to home, to find out what the girls who've datted and jiggered back with these 1940s Johnnyne think of the plan. National defense, yes; Johnny's conscription, well, maybe. So here we give you their answers to the puzzling: What do you think of the conscription of college-age boys for a military training?

Anne Williams (senior) says that: "It has to come sooner or later, and the case aren't in school now and don't have particularly good jobs will be getting good training. But I don't think it's good to have a boy from going to school or from having a job.

Military training has a reserve teacher in Mr. Ernest Crayton. They think they should do. If they are out of high school, they should go to get military training, provided they are given back to them. By that time, the college may be a little busy.

Ranking is not too bad, but not particularly necessary for conscientious. That's why I don't know what I think. I think it's necessary. The peace-time army idea is all right, but they should be prepared to do nothing more than the fact that they have to give up their jobs that they are getting started.

When she holds that: "I think it's awful, while I'm in college. Why he has come up with the discipline: 'It's an excellent idea, because I think every boy needs the discipline of military training."

Fanny Roper thinks that in the peace-time army is all right, but they should always be prepared to do nothing because they have to give up the jobs that they are getting started.

When she holds that: "I think it's awful, while I'm in college. Why he has come up with the discipline: 'It's an excellent idea, because I think every boy needs the discipline of military training."

Tatler Paydays for Year
"Tatler" paydays begin October 17. At present, weekly payday is $10.00, or $25.00, with $5.00 per week in the beginning of the sophomore year, and up to $60.00 a month at the end of the year. I was 'dumped' in with..."  "I don't know, but it's a good idea.

The new members will be initiated at the Tri-Beta meeting on Friday at 2:30 p.m. in the Winthrop club room.

Pugh to Conduct English Laboratory
An English laboratory, conducted by Griffith Pugh, instructor in English, will be established to give assistance to students who are weak in any phase of written English. Instructors from the department may send students to the laboratory students whom they consider need assistance. Students are encouraged to attend with a student with whom they recognize the need for assistance. The statement of the student's failure is an invitation to attend the institution until the laboratory student has made improvement. Each meeting in each case can be arranged proportionately.

This laboratory is the first of its kind at Winthrop. Attendance will be encouraged.

Send both the "Johnsonian" and a personal letter home each week.

Kappa Delta Pi Discuses Preparedness
Preparedness of National Defense is the subject around which Kappa Delta Pi discussions will center this year.

The first round table discussion on the topic was held last night in the music room of Johnson Hall with Dean Mowat Fraser, Dr. Estelle Grissom, Mark Blodige, Pauline Laye, Cleo Lawless, and Dena Owen participating.

Such discussions centering around this topic will be held from time to time during the reunion by members of the faculty, students, and well-known educators from other campuses.

Mrs. Paul Leonard, president of the National Preparatory Teachers' Association, will be the guest of Kappa Delta Pi on the campus on October 21-32.

Tri-Beta Taps
Five for Club Membership
Four juniors and one family member were issued bids to Beta Beta, national honorary club for biology students, at call meeting Saturday.

The following received bids: Margaret Runyon of Newberry, Jean Claxton of Hartsville, Mary Esther Gordon of Rocky Hill, and Mildred Pitney of Dillon Place.

Mrs. W. B. Stinson of Broad Street recently appointed laboratory assistant for the biology department, also received a bid to become an honorary member of the club.

An amendment to the constitution making the attendance this term necessary for admission to the club was passed.

Greater average from the beginning of the freshman year is the purpose of this amendment.

The new members will be initiated at the Tri-Beta meeting on Friday at 2:30 p.m. in the Winthrop club room.

How to Win Boy-Friends and Influence Stag-Lines

By Dale Dorothy Cris

Dear Miss Cris: I'm going to ask you to look into my very special problem. It is the one about my wisdom can give me. I am considered the "typical" type because I'm a good basketball player from an average high school. My senior year. But, oh, Miss Cris, I'd rather be a "femme fatale," and to do that I must learn how to speak a little better, more women that is—realize I'm just a Daughter of Venus. How does one begin?

Basketballs!!! Let me tell you right from the hop, these Harlinger females' types are born, not made. If you do not have the right looks and talent, the idea. Also, by the time you get to college these femme fatale tricks, you'll be too late to learn. This and all other physical is physically attractive in ways anybody can appreciate.

Basketball. Well, you got it. Basket-ball rules. There's the end, there's the real thing. Or maybe I was the game. Now, I'll be the first to admit that this new age rule ball game is not as easy for the normally average girl as it is for the basketball team. But you can start the way I did. Start playing with a group of girls. I'm glad to say that I'm a little bit better in the basketball game.

And speaking of football—Clemson-P. C. game was the favorite last Saturday—on the radios here. Congrats to Clemson on that 38-0 victory. That makes the army lose two new prospects. Coach Howard and assistant McMillan, we hear, were ready to increase the National Guard... the game went against the cadets. The Blue Hose were outclassed, of course, but they tried hard.

And if you wonder why Tulane is playing Clemson fifth instead of this first year, says Eddie Brits, just look at the scores of the past three years—7-5 Tulane, 10-15 Clemson, and 7-5 Tulane. Our Southern brothers are making themselves a threat it seems. We're eagerly awaiting their clash with 11 men on each side.

Stadium, walloped Rollins 19-7 last week. The wildcats are good season with their 26-0 victory over Carson-Newman. Not to forget that Harvard built the first football stadium Monday night. Elizabeth Fugitt
